Leftovers of Endurance is a project primarily based on relation between body, an execution of performance, within a context of architectural transformation. It is a case study of the radical transformation of the social structures dealing with notions of presence, endurance, devotion, space, time, change, movement and choreography, questioning among other things social and gender hierarchies.

HEREart offers exhibition opportunities to emerging and early career visual artists and curators. HEREart creates a multi-layered experience for our patrons that sticks with them as they move through the lobby and hallways, from one space to the next.
